EPA-R6-2019-006912	Mr. Stanley Millan	JonesWalker	6/27/2019	EPA-R6 - Region 6	See pdf below: 2019 data, documents from Weston and/or EPA on radiation cleanup at Lowerline and Olive Street in New Orleans . No cbi is requested. I am referring to a recent, ongoing cleanup and removal of radium 226 at lowerline street in New Orleans. This is current local news, on the internet and TV. It should be in your Superfund records. Apparently the city and/or LDEQ asked for epa assistance under cercla in the cleanup around January 2019. Apparently epa hired Weston to monitor that neighborhood and test, cleanup, contain, and transport the waste to texas. The work took place in May-June 2019. I am looking for 2019 correspondence between epa and LDEQ and/or the city of New Orleans regarding the cleanup. I am looking for the work or task order epa issued to Weston for that 2019 work. I am looking for data from Weston's 2019 lab test reports for the site, its 2019 site reports to epa including photos, and a record of its 2019 Geiger counter readings for that site. Plus any 2019 reports made by your on-scene coordinator. Attached is a notice from New Orleans for the work. Date range of records requested is May-June 2019, except Weston task order by EPA may predate that. That contract document is the only thing between Jan 2019-May 2019 I want. I agree to a total $300.00 total fee commitment.

71.	EPA-R2-2019-006998	Mr. Vernon Thornblad		7/2/2019	EPA-R2 - Region 2	In 1979-1980 The Federal government did a survey and investigation via air and on the ground in Essex County, NY , particularly in the Moriah NY for radiation levels on the streets that had been paved with iron ore tailings left behind in the large piles in Port Henry, Witherbee and Mineville, NY. They also measured radiation on the roads where traditional asphalt paving was used but which were covered in the winter with tailings, a practice still used today instead of spreading road salt. A third area of concern was the beach in Port Henry, which had been created by flatenning and spreading a tailing pile. The radiation was measured at 5-10 times the level the EPA considered safe at the time. The NY Department of Environmental Conservation got involved. Lastly, there was concern about the homes constructed of bricks that were made using the tailing material, but the radiation in and outside the homes was not measured.No action has ever been taken. I am interested in receiving the report, and any communication between the EPA, the NY DEC, any third party that may have been involved with the study and any other communication regarding the study and the subsequent decision to take no action.
